

Kindergarten News

For the week of
January 3 - January 6

- This week we talked about the digraph ch. Ch can be in the front of a word or at the end. See if your child can tell you words that begin and end with ch.
- With the short week we did not get to all of the reading groups watch for a reading bag next week.
- We continue to make our class books, this week it was Friends, Friends Who do you see? Everyone in the class loves making them and taking them home. I hope you enjoy reading them with your child as much as we love making them.
- In math this week we did grocery store math problems, and continued to talk about number partners. We also started sending home the estimation jar. The directions for the jar are inside. Please be sure to return the jar on the next school day.
- No red words this week. Keep practicing and, all, are, a, do, for, is, I, my, of, see, said, the, to, you. I did some checking this week and our class is really doing great with reading and writing these words!
- In religion we talked about the baptism of Jesus. Check Friday folders for the baptism craft we complete.
- In science we began a unit on space! Next week Wednesday is our field trip to the Planetarium. When you are in the building take a look in the front entry for one of our moon projects!

Happy New Year
Tina Fairweather