

Kindergarten News

For the week of November 28 -December 2

- Child of the Week this week was Nathan. Nathan and his mom and dad came in and shared pictures from their Make-A-Wish trip to Disney World. Nathan also shared his autograph book complete with signatures and pictures! The family also shared an important story with the class about Chemo therapy.
- Our letter this week was Jj. We met Ms. J who jumps around. Check out our jumping J's in the hallway near our classroom.
- Our red words this week were you and said. Please keep practicing reading, spelling and writing those read words.
- In math this week we finished Unit 3. We have been working hard on writing numbers through 20 and finding number partners.
- In religion we talked about Advent and attended the all school prayer service. We also sent home two different versions of Advent calendars to use as we prepare our hearts for Jesus.
- Library will be next week Tuesday so please return books by Tuesday morning. As you child's library books come home please take a few minutes to talk with them about the types of books that you would like to see them checking out. What they check out is their choice however, if you are unable to read chapter books with them I would like you to encourage them to make choices that they will read at home during the week. 😊
- In our afternoon science class we just began a big unit on the earth including weather, land formations and space exploration. We are charting weather for the month of December so if you think of it in the morning, please talk to your child about the temperature that day.
- You may have heard from your child that this week we welcomed Nick Bittner to our class. We are happy to have him join us. Please note that we now that 21 children for special events and treats.