January 13, 2012

This Week We started off our week by learning about ladybugs. The kids learned that a ladybug has 6 legs, 2 sets of wings, and likes to eat aphids. During the week we played a ladybug game, made lizards out of an uppercase letter L, and read more Jan Brett books. Most kids played a candy jar game with me too. This gave me a chance to check basic number recognition, order of numbers, and one to one counting of objects.	More – Day by Day Monday - Started making our LI art, a ladybug Tuesday – Read Lets Find Out about Martin Luther King, Wednesday – Played a game in which we had to guess what was making the sound we were hearing Thursday- Made hedgehog snacks out of biscuits, raisins, pretzels, and cinnamon sugar Friday – Read a book about light and made our own light bulb art to hang on our windows.
Next Week Next week will be full of letter Mm activities. Monday will all about Martin Luther King. We will talk about what he did for us and then will create a book page about what we dream about. We will be reading several different mitten books. A matching pair of mittens will be made to hang near our fireplace to dry.	Reminders *Sign up for our Book and Breakfast Day. We still need people willing to read a book to a small group of children. Donations of donut holes and milk are needed, too. The time commitment should be about an hour, 8:00-9:00 am. If Wed. 1/18 doesn't work for you, look to see if 2/8 or 3/18 will. Thanks!

Have a great weekend! Mrs. Schlieter
